The ebpSource technology offering and track record of successful deployments is a perfect complement to Decillion's 'best of breed' solutions approach with banks and payment processors. Decillion will be working with ebpSource to deliver world-class e-billing, e-statement, e-invoicing and payment solutions based on CheckFree i-Series™ to financial institutions in the region. "We expect to see a particular focus on the delivery of next generation services through the online banks, for both corporate and retail customers," stated Helen Chua, Regional Director at Decillion Solutions Group.

"EBPP and EIPP is not new in Asia. However, many banks have tried in the past and not succeeded due to an underestimation of the complexity of the process and a lack of truly valuable customer features in their platforms. With a field-proven, leading edge solution such as that provided by ebpSource and its experienced team, we are here to help and to assure the banks in Asia of a successful launch which adds real value to the customer experience," concluded Chua.

"This collaboration will bring a core foundation of some of the most successful global e-billing, e-statement and e-invoicing services to a much wider community of banks and payment processors in the South East Asia and South Pacific region," said Steve Wright, Executive Vice President at ebpSource. "It further underlines a commitment from ebpSource to strengthen an already impressive list of reference applications in the region by working with a value added partner in the local financial services sector," Wright added.
